

John Foster

John Foster is a poet from England. He was born in a small village called Scotby. Growing up, John's family didn't own a television. He liked to read books instead. John wanted to be a writer. At school, he wrote poems and stories. When he grew up, he wrote poems for his children. John is famous for writing and reading poems. He wrote the poem "A Morning Rush." John likes to make words fun. He helps people enjoy poems. John Foster shows us that reading and writing can be exciting every day.